ALL THE MEMBERS OF OUR RICH FAMILY ANCESTORS LIVED AND DIED IN ENGLAND

Lovell Family. So I go back to the main TYLER SEQUENCE on page 11 and find that the family name in parenthesis there is (TRACY) & I see that in the 6th generation before Dad a Tracy married into the Tyler family- so I go back farther to the main TRACY FAMILY SEQUENCE on page 1 of Summary and I find that (FREEMAN) is at head of that sequence; so I look in FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE and see that in the second generation before Dad our grandparent married a Tracy. So the Lovell blood comes to us through the TYLER: TRACY & FREEMAN LINE.

You could have saved yourself all that finangling by just referring to the chart for Elizabeth Tyler in the Chart Section at beginning of "SUMMARY". That is why I left all dates off the charts- so you could see the skeleton of descent for the allied families at a glance and then look for any special information you wanted in the appropriate section. It seemed less cumbersome to me this way but perhaps I was wrong. Right or wrong, you're stuck with it.

I think in my haste, I did not explain the Summary as fully as I ~~shd~~ should have.

Consider the FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE on p.1 of "Summary of Begats". After this FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE ~~the next sequence with the maternal line in Generation II; James Gavit Freeman married a Tracy, so the first large group of ALLIED FAMILIES after the FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE will be the Tracy group.~~

Now, we know so much about our Tracy ancestors with their wives' families that this material alone requires a separate large notebook- two actually with my extra notes on them. But regardless how voluminous the material is it must all be put before any material on the next Freeman wife who was the wife of Moses Freeman, gen. III- Margaret McCormick. Thus, we start the Tracy group with the TRACY FAMILY SEQUENCE which is a list of the Tracy Grandfathers with names of each wife when known. Then right after the Tracy grandfathers sequence, will be the material (all of it) on the wife of the first Tracy grandfather after Millie Eliza (Tracy) Freeman- which is Elizabeth Westbrook. And regardless of the volume of information (which is a huge book in my notes on the Westbrook alliances), all the FAMILY SEQUENCES coming to us through Elizabeth (Westbrook) Tracy out to the remotest known generation must be given before going on to the next Tracy wife who was Mary Baker, wife of Isaac Tracy. Here again, we have a vast network of FAMILY SEQUENCES coming to us through Mary Baker.

We do this with each Tracy grandmother in successive grandfathers marriages on through Mary (Griswold) Tracy.

Just remember that each grandmother's group of allied families is completed before another wife's family sequences are started.

It seems a little out of proportion, for instance, when we have so much on the maternal lines of the Stephens Family (such as the group contributed by Mary (Rathbone) Stephens) not to think of them as a completely separate Line. Which they are not, since they come to the Freeman blood through, BAKER AND THEN TRACY marriages.

Ø It is really a case of the tail wagging the dog.

Perhaps it is childish, but I often think of my work in terms of a comet with the Freeman generations forming the head of the comet and the spectacular tail flaring out into many streamers of varying length and importance (or interest).

My system of Roman Numerals in the Summary of the Ancestry of James W. Freeman may confuse you. It may be easier for you to think of the progress of descent in form of this circle I have drawn. The solid black circle in center J.W. Freeman who is generation I. If you look at your Summary you will find that there is not another I in the entire Summary.

Now notice that I have drawn a series of circles and that the segments vary in the number of spaces they are divided into, increasing rapidly as you move to the outermost circle. Each of these little compartments represent ~~sets of~~ grandparents.

I like to be able to place the approximate time a grandparent lived without consulting a mess of dates, as I like to think of the contemporary historical events they were acquainted with and sometimes associated with.

By looking at the Roman Numeral attached to each set of grandparents in the overall summary, I know immediately how many generations before Dad these grandparents lived and which other grandparents were alive at approximately the same time.

For instance, by just looking at the IX as I run through the Summary, I know that while our Johnny-no-good was tormenting his betters, Jean La Montagne was doing an excellent job of running Ft. Orange; that Capt. John Gallup was making us proud of him in Conn. and old Job Tyler was raising hell not very far from the latter end so on-It. Thos. Tracy is IX also and so on.

Then there are no IXs in some families so I realize about where our knowledge of our forbears in that family stops.

Most genealogies seem to number the first known generation of each family I regardless of how many generations are known of that branch or how few. If that is easier for you all you have to do is mark out my numerals and replace with your own system. The family sequences would not be changed in any way by your doing this.

It is fairly tedious to keep the lines of descent distinct and I know of no method of "Instant Comprehension". We have such a complete chart for so many generations, including the successive maternal lines marrying into these generations that it is confusing in an overall perusal. Remember that the family that "locks" each sequence into the overall circle is given in parenthesis at start of each additional family sequence.

For instance you want to place the two generations of Lovell or Lovetts you know to be in the family;

Find the Lovell Family Sequence first on page 12 of the Summary. The Family name in parenthesis is (TYLER) & the numerals are VIII & IV-so I know at once that we know just 2 generations of this family and that in the eighth generation before Dad a Tyler married into the Lovell Family-so I go back to the main TYLER SEQUENCE on page 11 and find that the Family Name in parenthesis there is (TRACY) and I see that in the sixth generation before Dad a Tracy married into the Tyler family-so I go back farther to the main TRACY FAMILY SEQUENCE on page 1 of Summary & I find that (FREEMAN) is at head of that sequence-so I look in FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE and see that in the second generation before Dad of grandparent married a Tracy.

The Lovell blood comes to us through the TYLER; TRACY & FREEMAN LINE. You could have saved yourself all that finangling by just referring to the chart for Elizabeth Tyler at beginning of Summary. That is why I left all dates off the charts-so you could see the skeleton of descent for the allied families at a glance and then look for any information you wanted in the appropriate section.

You do not have the death date of Dad's father. You should write it in the vacant space left for it in THE FREEMAN FAMILY SEQUENCE in the "Summary of Begats."

James Gavit Freeman died on November 2, 1915 at Wtway, Ohio and is buried in the ~~Cemetery~~ Cemetery there.

He was Justice of the Peace for many, many years and died because he would keep going out in the bad weather on election night to get the returns when he should have stayed in bed. His cold turned into pneumonia and he died.

Oh well, who wants to live for ever!

Also on page one of Summary of Begats; you should write in the death date for Dr. Jonathan Tracy; Oct. 14, 1888

And that Jonathan Tracy-b. April 29, 1742 (///// married () Flack.

Also there is a mistake I see on page 2 of Summary of Begats in the WRIGHT FAMILY SEQUENCE-should be;

(WESTBROOK)

ALLIED FAMILY OF WRIGHT (TERTIARY LINE SEQUENCE (This IV is same IV as in the WESTBROOK FAMILY SEQUENCE) instead of "as in the 3 TRACY FAMILY SEQUENCE"

There are probably more slips but I just have not had the time to check as carefully as I should have-trying to do too much in the amt. of time I could give to it, I suppose. I would have vowed I had not made as obvious a mistake as this one.

SUMMARY (THE BEGATS) OF ANCESTRY OF JAMES WATSON FREEMAN

The Roman numerals designate the generations starting with JAMES WATSON FREEMAN as generation I. Fit the first Roman numeral given in each allied family sequence over the identical Roman numeral in designated family sequence. This will give you the correct generation at which each allied family joins the "Family Tree".

A double line like this, _____, separates each MAIN LIMB of the family tree with all it's own individual allied families from the next MAIN LIMB and it's group of allied families.

The single lines such as this, _____, separate the next groups of families within the MAIN LIMB overall group-I suppose we can call these groups the SECONDARY LIMBS of the family tree.

The rows of, , which occur between the single line markings, set apart the family groups branching off of these SECONDARY LIMBS. We will call these groups the TERTIARY LIMBS.

The rows of occurring between the rows of  within the TERTIARY LIMB groups will be the TWIGS of the family tree.

You will not have any trouble really as the names of the families will place them for you.

NOTE-Some records suggest that Ann Dodge above married her own nephew John Rathbone as second husband. I doubt this. I find it difficult to believe that the Margaret and Ann Dodges above were sisters. The records are too fragmentary & while Tristram Sr. did have daughters of those names, too little is known of this family. I think that even if both girls were reared by Tristram Sr. & his wife that one could very easily have been an orphan taken into the family. Remember that the only way they had of disposing of orphans was to parcel them out to Colonial families. I don't think the names of such children were often changed but if the child were an infant, it seems likely to me she would have been known as a Dodge child even if the name was not legally changed.

ALLIED FAMILY OF RATHBONE SEQUENCE

- VI---"Stephens-etc Gen"as above-pp. 48, 500, appendix p.503
(the confusion over whether she was a single woman or a widow named Mrs. Mary Rathbone will have to be worked out before this line can be unraveled-listed both ways but the records were old and handwritten) she may be daughter of the Mary Wightman whose ancestry goes back to Roger Williams of Rhode Island by his daughter- that would make her the dau. of Joshua Rathbone; and she did name her first son Joshua Stephens which seems suggestive to me. Also the "Stephens Gen." lists her as just Mary Rathbone but does not mention her parents. The Wightman and Rathbone families seem to be Rhode Island families.)
From "Stephens Gen.,
"(Book3, p.138) Jedediah Stevens and Mrs. Mary Rathbone married Apr. 4,1743 by me Joseph Fish, Pastor."
This is only instance when she is called Mrs. Mary Rathbone; Other times in the records it is written "Mary Rathbone"
"Joshua, son of Jedediah and Mary Stevens, born Jan.13, 1744/5."
(Note-Joshua is not a Stephens Family Name
page 503
"Apr. 4,1743, Jedediah Stevens and Mary Rathbone married by Rev. Joseph Fish."
Note that here she is not called "Mrs."
and at end of list this statement occurs-
"A true copy of records found in the record books of the Congregational Church of North Stonington, Conn.

You may come across references saying Margaret Reade's history is unknown. Later research among the Winthrop Papers and a family letter revealed her family and her husband's family. She left him in England with the son and brought her two daughters to America with her two married sisters and their families. She was the sister-in-law of Governor Winthrop Jr. and lived in his home. Disregard all earlier speculation about her.
